I. Perfectly Imperfect

'Perfectly imperfect' sums up my America Experience. "Be perfect as your Heavenly Father is perfect" (Mt 6:3) is the call of Jesus. The call to perfection facilitates and urges one to move towards a better version of oneself. Being honest to oneself, sooner or later, one would realize one's imperfections. Some play the blame game and point accusing finger on one's background, or foreground or circumstances, or even others. They are just symptoms and external. But the roots are internal and invisible. Acceptance of them is a good part of process of growth and maturity. At first sight everything seems to be, as in America, perfect but a deeper look reveals the imperfections or perfect imperfections. When asked the president of Singapore whether 'everything in your country is fine?', he replied 'yes, everything in Singapore is fine because we fine for everything'! USA is perfectly imperfect and it is serious about imperfections. The people are honest and serious about public morality and order. But it is not the same with regard to personal morality!

Consumers being Consumed

We all are aware that we live in a consumer society. This mentality affected our psyche very deeply and made powerful impact on society. Many oppress or cheat others especially the poor and the marginalized, who themselves become even worse oppressors when one gets a chance. We want to own things and anything new in brand at the cost of even one's near and dear. Thus we move to own people and use them due to inner spiritual vacuum instigating on basis of race in US, caste in India, and the like all over the globe. The consumer consumes even persons and the consumers themselves become consumed. Thus we become less human resembling animals and things. Being human if different from human being. We reverse the maxim “love people and use things” by loving things and using people.

God’s Dream of Each of Us

We know we dream and even day-dream! We know even about saint dreamers and biblical personalities. But how many of us know that God dreams of you and me, going far beyond what the consumer world could offer. Each of was created wonderfully unique (Ps 139) by God, who dreams that we would celebrate ‘being perfectly ourselves, not copying others and becoming xerox copies!

No Pretentions to Impress Others

Be yourself, do not pretend to impress others in order to gain artificial happiness. Do not copy even others’ mistakes. It was s better that you make your own mistakes. It would not bring even temporary pleasure. If you pretend and get some admiration, your inner voice cries out advising that you were betraying yourself. In fact, it is fooling oneself, scoring self goal.

Life is not having or doing but becoming perfect. No one is born-perfect but perfectly imperfect. We all need to wish and grow towards imperfectly perfect by hoping to reach the goal of perfectly perfect, as Jesus invites. We are all born original, let us not die as duplicates. Let us not put up advertising boards of attractions, which are far different from reality. Let the month of July facilitate to be what God dreamt of us and grow towards the goal of imperfectly perfect!

II. Riunione Opere Aiuto Chiese Orientali (ROACO) helps Oriental Catholic Churches witness to the Gospel

Pope Francis thanks ROACO for their work in helping the Oriental Catholic Churches “to carry forward their witness to the Gospel. Pope Francis on Friday received participants in the Plenary Assembly of ROACO, which this year coincides with the 50th anniversary of the organization.

The Reunion of Aid Agencies to the Oriental Churches (ROACO: Riunione Opere Aiuto Chiese Orientali), unites funding agencies from various countries in order to assist Catholic Oriental clergy and faithful in Rome and in their different countries of origin. The twenty-three Oriental (or Eastern) particular Churches sui iuris are all in full communion with Rome, and are all part of the Catholic Church.

According to the teaching of the Church in the Second Vatican Council, all particular Churches, whether or East or West, “are of equal dignity, so that none of them is superior to the others.”

In his prepared remarks, the Holy Father noted the fiftieth anniversary of ROACA, and recalled the biblical concept of the jubilee year, a year of “freedom of slaves, the cancellation of debt, and the restitution of land,” which was based on God’s covenant with His people. He called on the participants in the Plenary Assembly to think back “with gratitude” on the past, and especially on those who have worked in the various agencies in support of “their works of charity and assistance.”

The Pope focused especially on the assistance given to the Oriental Catholic Churches “to carry forward their witness to the Gospel,” both in their native lands and in the diaspora. This witness was often tested by suffering and persecution, notably in the totalitarian regimes of Eastern Europe, and more recently by various forms of “fundamentalism and fanaticism” in the Middle East. In marking the anniversary, he noted, too, that the “year of grace” of the Lord is marked both by internal liberation from sin, and by external liberation “in the new life of the redeemed.”

Pope Francis continued to emphasize the theme of witness as he called to mind St Peter’s invocation, on the day of Pentecost, of the prophecy of Joel: “I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams.” The Eastern Catholic Churches, he said, “are called in a special way to protect and pass on a spark of Pentecostal fire.” Strengthened by the Holy Spirit, this mission continues, even in places, like the Holy Land, where Christians are in the minority, and even in places where they face ongoing persecution.

The Pope also prayed that “the sons and daughters of the Oriental Catholic Churches cherish their prophetic charge to proclaim the Gospel of Jesus, even in settings that are often even more secularized than in the West, where they come as immigrants or refugees.” He asked that they be welcomed “as they seek to preserve and enrich the patrimony of their various traditions.”

Finally, Pope Francis offered a word “of thanks and encouragement” to ROACO for its work in sustaining the Oriental Churches, which allows “the Successor of Peter,” the Pope, to continue the work of ecumenism. He assured the members of those Churches that, “in the effort to extend a cordial and sincere hand to our most distant brothers and sisters, our sons and daughters are no less loved, and certainly not forgotten.”

III. Feast of St. Thomas the Apostle of India

With St Thomas, the Apostle in center stage, we are once more blessed with a teaching on faith and goodness, which we find in every person. Goodness is man’s natural trait as man is made in the likeness of our God and Father. Thomas had to see Jesus in order to believe. For generations and till the present time, Thomas has been tagged as the ‘Doubting Thomas.’ He has been known in the Christian world for what he was not, and not for what he was, a disciple of Jesus.

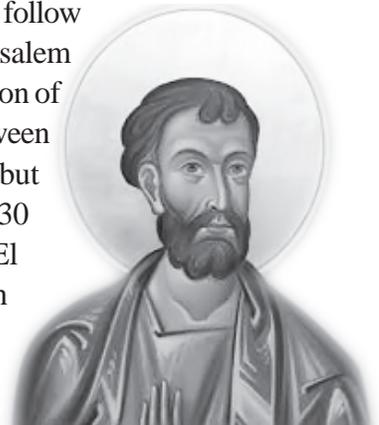

Thomas is certainly a victim of man’s tendency to highlight the negative rather than focus on the positive. We tend to proclaim a failure and set aside the victory. Thomas’ skepticism earned for himself the name of Doubting Thomas for all ages and yet he never earned the recognition of being the only character in the Bible to call Jesus, “God.” Jesus said, “Put your hand into my side. Do not persist in your unbelief, but believe!” Thomas said in response, “My Lord and my God!”

As we relate with one another, we are made aware that we should not only be able to see what is positive in every circumstance but be able to transcend the negative and make it work for God’s greater glory. In community life, we will be able to achieve unity only if we have the grace of seeing both sides of a situation. If we are able to work together as a body of believers united by one faith and love of God, we will be able to see the goodness in others, ‘though without utter disregard for what is negative and what needs change in order to prosper in our work for the Lord.

A Christian community should be able to nurture and nourish one’s faith and belief in God. It should be a community of love and not one that seeks to blame and justify, not one that fosters hate but love and understanding, a church that is for and by Christ and not by people like those who opposed Jesus during his time.

IV. Feast of St. James

James was the first among the apostles who had the honor to follow his divine Master by martyrdom, which he suffered at Jerusalem under King Herod Agrippa I, who inaugurated a persecution of Christian in order to please the Jews. He was beheaded between the years 42 and 44 A.D. and was buried in Jerusalem, but again according to tradition of Spain, dating from about 830 A.D., the body was transferred first to Iria Flavia now El Pardon in Galicia and then transferred to Compostela, Spain during the middle ages. The shrine of James became one of the greatest of all Christian shrines.

James had drunk the cup of martyrdom and for some of us the cup entails physical suffering and painful struggle of martyrdom. But for many, it entails the long routine of the Christian life, with all its daily sacrifices, disappointments, set-backs, struggles, and temptations.

Let us be challenged by St. Paul: Christian is not to “be ashamed of testifying to our Lord,” (2 Tim 1:18) in deed and word. Martyrdom is the supreme witness given to the truth of the faith. St. Ignatius of Antioch said, “Neither the pleasures of the world nor the kingdom of this age will be of any use to me. It is better for me to die in order to unite myself to Christ Jesus than to reign over the ends of the earth. I seek him who died for us; I desire him who rose for us. My birth is approaching. . .” Jesus defeated the powers of death through his resurrection.

V. Feast of Sts. Joachim and Anne

By tradition Joachim and Anne are considered to be the names of the parents of Mary, the Mother of God. We have no historical evidence, however, of any elements of their lives, including their names. Any stories about Mary's father and mother come to us through legend and tradition. We get the oldest story from a document called the Gospel of James, though in no way should this document be trusted to be factual, historical, or the Word of God. The legend told in this document says that after years of childlessness, an angel appeared to tell Anne and Joachim that they would have a child. Anne promised to dedicate this child to God (much the way that Samuel was dedicated by his mother Hannah -- Anne -- in I Kings).

For those who wonder what we can learn from people we know nothing about and how we can honor them, we must focus on why they are honored by the church. Whatever their names or the facts of their lives, the truth is that it was the parents of Mary who nurtured Mary, taught her, brought her up to be a worthy Mother of God. It was their teaching that led her to respond to God's request with faith, "Let it be done to me as you will." It was their example of parenting that Mary must have followed as she brought up her own son, Jesus. It was their faith that laid the foundation of courage and strength that allowed her to stand by the cross as her son was crucified and still believe. Such parents can be examples and models for all parents.

Devotion to St. Anne grew in Europe through a popular French tradition. The French believed that Mary Magdalene, Lazarus, Martha, and other friends of Jesus crossed the Mediterranean Sea and landed at the southern French city of Marseilles where they spread the news about Jesus' death and resurrection. According to this tradition Mary Magdalene's group brought with them the remains of St. Anne.

VI. Feast of St. Alphonsa

The falling of grain of wheat into the earth and dying is for a noble cause. It is for the abundant cause of increase. Life of St. Alphonsa on earth was a process like falling of grain of wheat into the earth and dying. Those who would meditate to have a glimpse of her saintly and virtuous life will come across a sea of reflections that certainly enrich their Christian existence. The first saint of the Syro – Malabar Church is enshrined as a model for taking up our daily crosses and to follow Jesus Christ so closely.

St. Alphonsa's life itself witnesses that she had known very well that a seed of Christ resides in her. It is because of this conviction she let the divine seed of purity get sprouted.

When her life was permeated with the power of Holy Spirit, she entered through the narrow gate way offered by Jesus. She was getting tuned literally to the words of John, the Baptist; "Christ alone was growing in her and her self was being reduced."

Her life will be ever remembered as the one which accepted the life without any rebellion as it was offered to her. This could be the unique and salient virtue that made her a saint. When she was ready to say 'Yes' to the Lord, she was telling 'Yes' to the very life. No one will find her saying even a word of complaint over the long-lasting trials, hardships and sufferings of her religious life. She was well prepared to accept the life as her creator has designed for her. Hence, an inspiring lesson that we could draw out from her life is that there is always the hands of God behind every experience of life.

VII. Feast of St. Ignatius of Loyola

Four foundational mystical events stamped Ignatius' life. The first took place at Loyola during his long, boring recuperation from the shattering leg wounds received at the battle of Pamplona. Daydreaming about "worldly matters" quickly vanished and left him "dry and unhappy." Reveries about imitating the saints in their holy follies not only consoled him, "but even after they had left him he remained happy and joyful." The insight that some thoughts left him sad while others consoled him caused him to understand that joy is from God and sadness from the devil.

The second significant mystical experience also occurred during his recuperation at Loyola: a vision of the Virgin Mary holding the Child Jesus. This transformative vision instilled in Ignatius such a disgust for his past life—especially for sins of the flesh—that it seemed to erase all the images that had been previously imprinted on his mind. From that hour, he wrote, "he never again consented, not even in the least matter, to the motions of the flesh. Because of this effect in him he concluded that this had been God's doing." It would be difficult to overemphasize the importance of Ignatius' transformative visions for understanding his mysticism.

The third—and most important—event in Ignatius's life took place on the banks of the nearby river Cardoner, where "the eyes of his understanding began to open" and he was infused with a comprehension of many things pertaining to both faith and learning. His understanding was enlightened to such an extent "that he thought of himself as if he were another man and that he had an intellect different from the one he had before." Ignatius would claim only a few years before his death that the clarity he received in his understanding on this one occasion surpassed the sum total of all the numerous and great mystical gifts he had received throughout his entire life.

The fourth salient mystical event took place several years later when Ignatius and several of his companions were on their way to Rome to place themselves at the Pope's disposal.

Feast Day Wishes to all Jesuits!

As I take on this responsibility of guiding the WADES, I request you all to extent your cooperation at the interest of students, institutions and diocese at large. Running educational institutions is the one of the priorities in the mission of the Church. In fact, the prime mission that the Catholic Church engaged in India is EDUCATION. Almost one fifth of educational institutions are run by Christians for decades. And it is the fact that Christian institutions have brought a very big change in the INDIAN society, especially among the poor, marginalized and vulnerable through the mission of the education. We can be proud of claiming that we have been agents of change and be able to produce citizens with social, cultural and human values. We need to continue with much more vigor and commitment in this line as it is the need of the hour to produce pupil with human values and human dignity for the better society.

The CBCI office for Education and Culture also recommends very strongly that all our educational institutions should teach Constitutional values to foster patriotism, National integration and love for the country. A Short lesson plan consisting of nine pages and a beautiful module is also prepared by them on Constitutional values to be taught in all our institutions. It will be circulated to you shortly for follow up.

Let us put together all our efforts to serve our society and nation better, as the disciples of Christ and citizens of India.
